This mission directive implements policy guidance in AFI 38-101, Air Force Organization, and AFI 10-101, Format and Content of Mission Directives, and DODI 4000.19, Interservice, Interdepartmental, and Interagency Support. It applies to the Air Mobility Command (AMC) Numbered Air Forces (NAFs). Its purpose is to prescribe mission, command relationship, and responsibilities for the AMC NAFs.

SUMMARY OF REVISIONS

This document is substantially revised and must be completely reviewed.

1. Mission. The mission of the AMC NAF is three-fold: First, to command assigned forces and to ensure the readiness of assigned and AMC-gained forces. Second, is to provide airlift and air refueling forces, as directed. Third, is to be prepared to act as Joint Force Air Component Commander (where the preponderance of forces are mobility forces) or a Director of Mobility Forces for a Commander, Air Force Forces when so designated.

2. Command. The commanders of 15th and 21st Air Force (AF) are under the command of the Commander of AMC. Normal command channels apply except when otherwise authorized.

3. Responsibilities.

3.1. Commands assigned forces and prepares them for war.

3.2. Plans and conducts Aircrew Standardization and Evaluation Visits of assigned units as well as AMC-gained United States Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard units. Reports to the AMC commander on combat readiness, leadership, and degree of aircrew standardization of these units.

3.3. The commanders of 15 AF and 21 AF exercise general and special court-martial convening authority.

- 3.4. The commanders of 15 AF and 21 AF exercise Class B mishap convening authority.
- 3.5. The Commander, 15 AF is dual-hatted as the Commander, Task Force 294 (TF-294).
- 3.6. Commands assigned units, aircraft, and support forces to accomplish airlift and air refueling requirements as tasked by higher headquarters.
- 3.7. Assures combat readiness of AMC airlift and air refueling forces.

4. Relationship to Other Units or Agencies. NAFs are authorized direct communications with HQ AMC. Interservice support may be received or provided in accordance with DODI 4000.19, Interservice, Interdepartmental, and Interagency Support.
